

Tom O'Dwyer
Analog Devices, Inc

Biography:

Tom O'Dwyer holds a Bachelor of Electronic Engineering degree from University College Dublin, Ireland, and a Masters in Computer Systems from the University of Limerick, Ireland. He is currently Director of Technology for Healthcare at Analog Devices Inc (ADI), with responsibility for new product and technology development for the worldwide healthcare market. This encompasses a wide range of semiconductor components and processes aimed at the medical instrumentation, imaging, patient monitoring, consumer and implanted device sectors.